For Human being and social animal, COVID-19 effected the element of togetherness, and even introduced new ways of living and work by keeping social distance. Although, in the year 2021, much has been done to overcome the effects of COVID-19 by vaccinating people and saving human lives, but shadows of this deadly virus are still haunting human by flaring up the new waves. And every time we wonder how the COVID-19 crisis will end, we think about the HISWO's team, working in such difficult times to serve the humanity across the country, especially in the province of Sindh, Pakistan. ## Our Working Approach & Strategies

HISWO has three-prong program approach i.e. a) Charity and Welfare Initiatives, b) Humanitarian Response Emergency and c) Social mobilization, community participation, and gender inclusiveness are at the center of all the programs within HISWO

Thematic Programs:

The HISWO has always strived to pioneer the development approaches while applying them in various outreach areas and gaining hands-on experience of the methodology to ascertain their correctness and applicability. It structured the organization's thematic areas and functional approach from the inception stage. The initial thematic areas focused on Social Protection, Education, Health and Nutrition, Livelihood, and Disaster Preparedness, Response & Recovery (DPRR) The HISWO has always taken youth and gender as cross-cutting themes in all activities. The critical working approach involved the social mobilization of communities and charity based initiatives across the country. HISWO strategically changed the thematic field through restoring its efforts for ensuring sustainable development. As a result, the thematic areas were revised and currently comprised of the following

Quality Education and Learning

HISWO believes that education is fundamental human rights and foundation for the development and changing the social fabric of the society; therefore, protecting the right to education is a key to enabling people to secure their basic rights. A major challenge for the education in Pakistan is lack of interest on the part of public institutions to provide quality education since the public sector is rapidly losing its credibility and quality due to absence of accountability and prevalence of corruption. Education should provide children with the attitude as well as the skills that are conducive to promoting creativity, problem solving and coping with uncertainties. Only bringing a child into classroom is not enough, the basic thing is quality of education that is delivered to him.

The goal of HISWO's Education program is to make a significant contribution to the achievement of education for all in its areas of operation. It aims to improve the quality and delivery of services in education that are appropriate to the needs of poor children, in particular girls, and to increase their access to those services. Its purpose is to help fill the remaining gaps in coverage, retention, and quality of primary basic education.

The unavailability of private schools that provide quality education and the incapability of parents to afford private school education is a major cause of illiteracy in rural Sindh and in the suburbs of city areas of Sindh even in Karachi. Government schools are under the worst conditions due to frequent disasters in recent past years and other conditions, more children are studying in government schools than the private schools. Many of the schools are lacking infrastructure, furniture, toilet, and even hand washing facilities that leads to failure to provide quality education to vulnerable children. Parents in poverty-stricken areas are unable to provide uniforms and other necessities to their children.

Torrential rain floods in Sindh in 2022 brought one of the worst disaster in Sindh which made the situation even the worst for the education in Sindh. During the reported period of the years 2022-2023, a team of Haqooq e Insaniyat Social Welfare Organization visited many disaster prone areas to find the scope of working for the improving education in Sindh. After needful assessment, HISWO started many informal learning centers in the districts including district Mirpurkhas and Jacobabad with the support of our generous donors. Informal education can empower marginalized groups, including women and minorities, by providing them with opportunities for learning and skill development. This can contribute to greater inclusivity and equity in education in Sindh, Pakistan.

In addition to this, HISWO also provided educational support to poor and 600 needy children like stationery, uniforms, bags, and other necessities in the schools of district Mirpurkhas and Jacobabad in Sindh.

Human Rights & Good Governance

Human Rights Situation of Pakistan, particularly in Sindh is the worst. Though every citizen in Pakistan is entitled to basic human rights as enshrined in national and international bindings, laws and constitutions, and state is responsible for the protection of basic human rights of her citizens, but lack of interest on the part of state has put people into insecure condition where they are insecure and experience violation of basic human rights as matter of course.

The goal of HISWO's human Rights & Good Governance program is to enhance knowledge base of marginalized communities, the youth and humanitarian activists about basic human rights enshrined in national and international humanitarian instruments, the constitution of Pakistan, various national and provincial policies and acts and to develop pressure through mobilization and awareness upon the state and public institutions to implement the laws and policies and enforce the international bindings for the protection of basic rights.

We aim to enhance the awareness level of people and let them know about their rights they have entitled in national and international bindings so that people should demand their basic rights on the their own.

Sustainable Livelihood Development

HISWO's livelihood development program focuses the poor and ultra-poor people through small-scale enterprise development, vocational and skill development trainings, agriculture and livestock promotion interventions. HISWO believes without economic prosperity, the poor and ultra-poor people can never access to different social and political privileges and economic prosperity is linked with sustained livelihood sources. HISWO supports such people to be engaged in viable income generating activities and struggle for dignified lifestyle.

After the basic and immediate needs of people during the disasters, livelihood resources are the major factors to bring people out to trauma and painful situation. Because, people need long term and continuous support till the situation gets normalize, but, unfortunately organizations and government institutes unable to continue their required support to these families. Therefore HISWO envisaged livelihood resources are the most important to support people who have already lost their agriculture and livestock in the flood 2022.

Therefore during the reported periods, 2022-2023, HISWO provided support to provide livestock / animals, sewing machines to poor women and fruit cart to poor labor for doing their business in district Mirpurkhas for earning their butter and bread, even then they do not have external support from different organizations and institutes.

Disaster Risk Reduction and Humanitarian Response

Devastating Heavy rainfall flood badly affected more than 33 million population in Pakistan, 11 million people in Sindh. Around 33 million people affected by heavy rains and floods including at least 7.9 million people have been displaced of whom some 598000 are living in relief camps, Nearly 800,000 refugees are estimated to be hosted in more than 40 calamity notified districts. 13 districts of Sindh have declared most affected by the disaster. In total 1700 have died, and 12867 have suffered injuries.

Emergency Response to flood affected areas of Sindh

One of the most important initiatives of Haqooq-e-Insaniyat Social Welfare Organization (HISWO) is to stand up with poor and needy people of Pakistan at the times of difficulties. Haqooq-e-Insaniyat Social Welfare Organization (HISWO) not only responded emergency situation in Sindh, but it also marched towards Baluchistan for helping people to serve the humanity. Because, torrential floods had also equally hit the some areas of Baluchistan. As, most of NGOs, INGOs and institute had started their operations either in Sindh and Punjab to support flood affected population so district lasbella of Baluchistan was totally neglected by many organizations, hence, HISWO decided to reach the people who are in need. So, it started to support and distributed ration bags and cooked foods in district Lasbella of Baluchistan. Details of emergency support in Baluchistan as are following:

Low-Cost Housing

Massive and consequents floods of 2010, 2011 and 2022 in Sindh has destroyed everything of poor families and resource less people including houses, crops, livestock and infrastructure at the village level. Everywhere communities were demanding low-cost housing and shelters and means of livelihood to lead their respectful and dignified lives. So keeping in view the significant needs of the communities HISWO started working on the low-cost housing and livelihoods development of the rural communities. Following is specific objectives of the low-cost housing:

One of the most pressing need of people facing during the flood was a shelter. Without shelter people do not people face many challenges to cope up with disastrous situation? Keeping in view the importance of shelter, HISWO tried to address this utmost important challenge in devastating flood disaster affected areas of Sindh.

HIQWO constructed one room shelter room in Taluka Jhudo and Kot Ghulam Mohd of district Mirpur Khas to bring smiles on the faces of people who had lost their valuable belongings, livelihood and thatched houses they built with efforts of their offspring.

The primary objective of initiating shelter project was to provide durable, safe, and habitable housing for families affected by the devastating floods and make people more resilient to face drastic impacts of floods. In addition to this people were also enabled to learn skills of making shelters with minimum and available resources by involving these families into the entire process of constructing shelter.
